Growth Brings Uniqueness

Everything changes quickly — clothes, music, even the ideas we have accumulated through life. But there's another change that takes place in our high school years that often goes unnoticed.

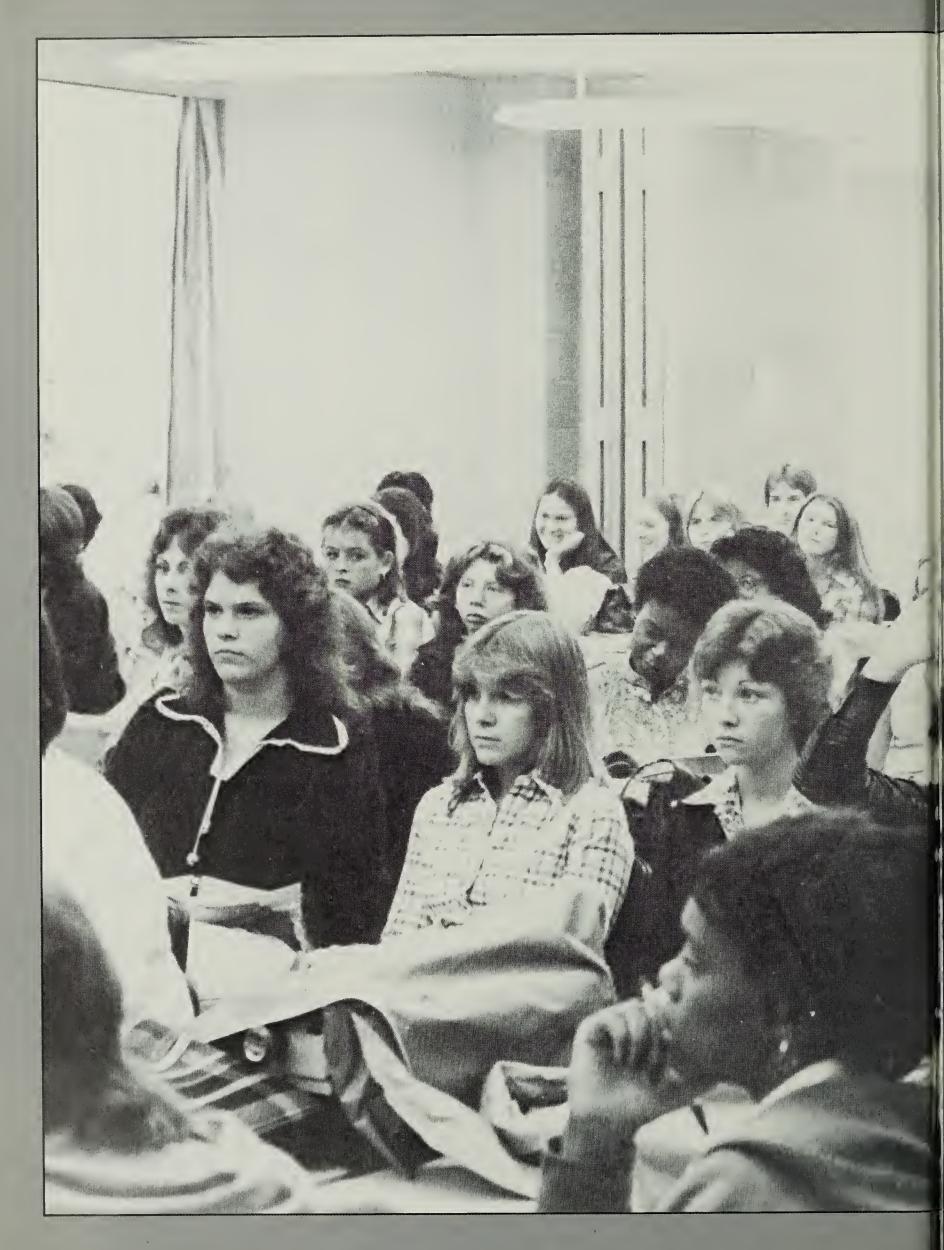

We become individuals.

Somehow, amid all the crowds of cliques and acquaintances, we separate and begin to form our own personalities. Each of us has some areas in common with others, but our individual emotions, opinions, and ethics make us special and unique.

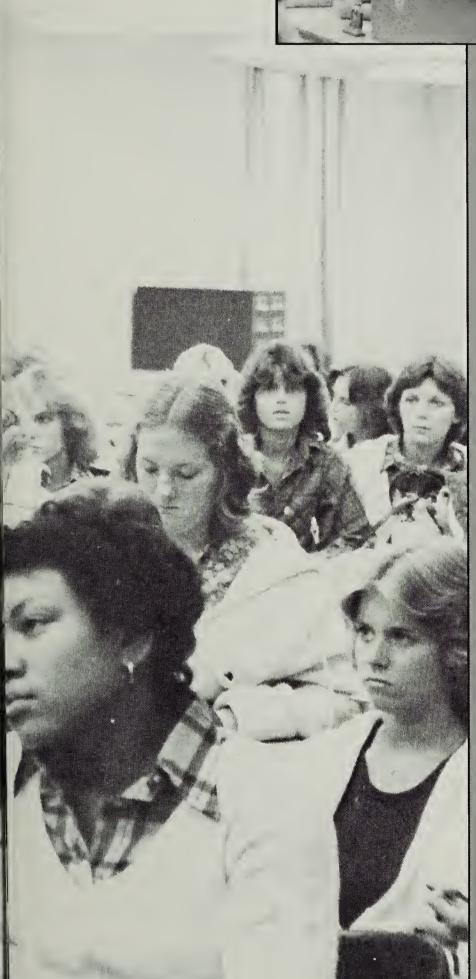

This trend of individualism is a sign of the times. People are beginning to realize their potentials and talents.

The persons we are quickly becoming will be with us forever. We can never be duplicated.

Paths

From the start they are with us. Leading us into awareness. These roads, none the exact same, take us to our goals. Along the way, our mental and physical abilities are sharpened. We are being prepared.

Hockey Teams Reverse Trends

The Varsity hockey team got off to a slow start with their 2-0 loss to Fauquier. But the team came back to have more wins than teams in the past, even though their record was 6-6. The team also had nine seniors who contributed their spirit to the team no matter if they won or lost.

After the last game, Miss Boyd told her seniors, "Our record might not be as impressive as we would have liked, maybe it shows how our competition is becoming stronger. We also have to remember that eight of our twelve games were against

AAA teams. As our team prayer states, we were 'gracious in victory and modest in defeat.'''

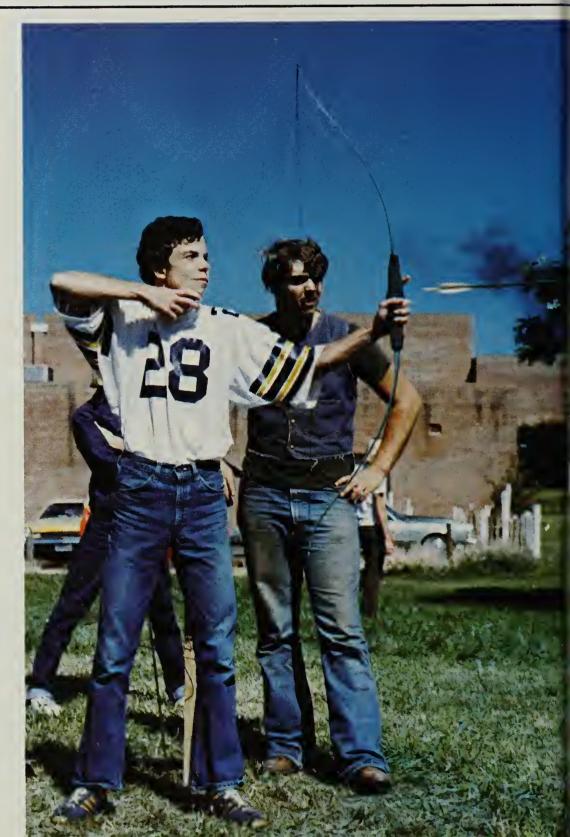

The J.V. hockey team was the hottest one seen with their record of 11-1. They were undefeated until the first game against Stafford, but beat Stafford the second time they played them. Throughout the season the team waited for Mrs. Templeton, their coach, to have her baby. She finally had a little boy on the day the team played at King George.

Behind The Scenes

It is difficult for one to realize the hours and efforts that produce the teamwork, the spirit, and the loyalty in any sports activity. A lot of the training is begun before high school, but it is polished throughout Junior Varsity and Varsity participation. For some it is natural talent; for others it presents a challenge.

Some say the team is only as good as the coach; in any case, a team does not exist without one. Those here at CCHS appear to be very dedicated as shown by the many hours, miles, and efforts in the day-to-day grind.

When a season ends whether it has been a winning or losing one, those who have worked together have an extra something that they will carry with them beyond Culpeper County High School.

Injuries Mar Young Team

Spurred by two straight victories to start the season, Devil fans began to feel that this would be the long awaited season of glory for their team. Unfortunately those dreams were short-lived as the football team went on to win only one more game during the year. Plagued by injuries at key positions and a relatively young team of mainly sophomores, the Devil's were simply outgunned by their bigger and stronger opponents. This team did have heart and kept fighting to come back whatever the deficit was. In the Homecoming game against Albemarle they had to come from behind several times. They never gave up and victory escaped them only by the margin of a missed two-point conversion in the closing seconds.

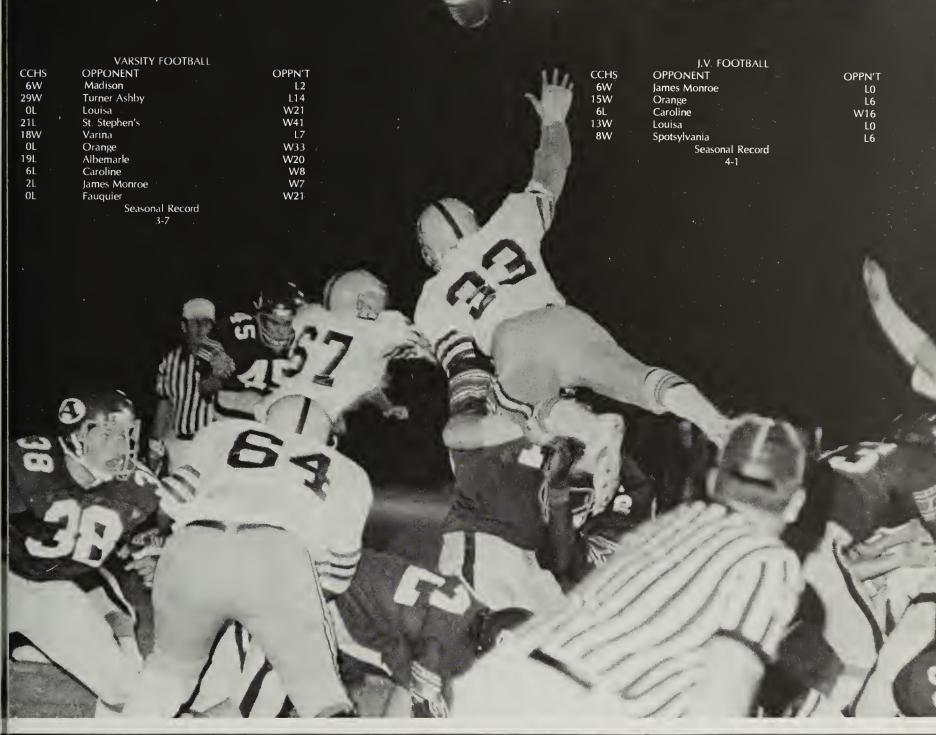

The performance of the J.V. football team gave hope for the future. Finishing the season with only one loss, the J.V. gridders showed that Culpeper will be a name to be reckoned with in football in the near future.

On A Winning Streak

Keeping with their tradition, Culpeper's J.V. and Varsity girl's basketball teams brought home the Battlefield District titles. It was Varsity's third time in a row. They were also runner-ups in the region.

Basically inexperienced, the J.V. squad had only one returning player, Marcia Allen. In the beginning, it was anticipated that with hard work the girls would come out with a winning season.

The team consisted of good shooters, useful offensive movement, and an aggressive defense. All the dedication paid off when they finished with an undefeated record.

Varsity also went unbeaten in district play. In order to achieve this, the team had to go through many grueling practices.

The team was led by its two senior cocaptains, Debbie Hackley and Vera Drumgoole. Vera, who was a guard, was voted the most valuable player after she surpassed 1000 points in her four years on Varsity.

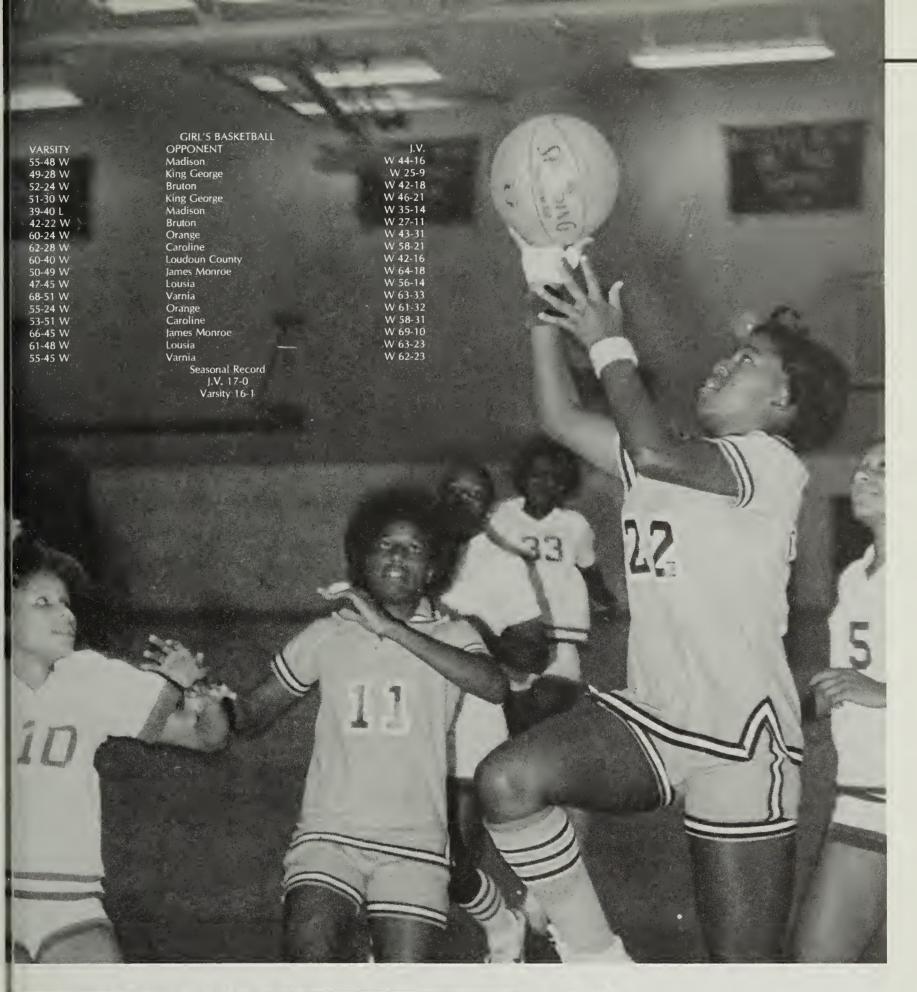

Coach Carter stated her feelings by saying, "This year's team was better than I had expected and because of the talent coming up from the J.V. team, next year should provide a good ball team."

Students Have Spirit

As the fever of spirit week started shoes of all sorts came out of their hiding places and were worn by enthusiastic students.

The plague spread like wild fire with Tuesday being crazy hat day. Hats, ranging from stocking caps and bonnets to top hats, were bobbing up and down the halls.

Wednesday was fifties day and memories were brought back for a lot of teachers. The smell of brill creme and the sound of penny loafers filled the school.

Thursday was tie day. People tried to wear the most number of ties. Mrs. Parsick won with her skirt made of ties.

With Friday being the final day of school spirit week, all that was left was to wear blue and gold.

Spirit week just wouldn't have been the same if there hadn't been a pep rally to help prepare the football players for the "big" game that night.

With 300 people attending the Homecoming dance and the music of New World the defeat of the Blue Devils by the Albemarle Patriots was almost forgotten.

Cheer Power!

With new sponsors and a new format the cheerleaders led the resurgence of school spirit that surfaced this year. Determination and practice were the key ingredients to those cheerleaders. To sharpen their skills, over the summer they attended cheerleading camp at Longwood College where they won three superior ribbons. The new sponsors, Miss Guilford and Miss Frank, divided the girls into two squads of seven each, in the process doing away with a J.V. squad. The Blue and Gold squads each had different events designated for them to cheer for. This relatively new group, eight of the fourteen are sophomores, provided the needed support for the many Blue Devil athletes.

Lone Victory Highlights Season

Even though the season opened with two losses, the team went on to defeat Rappahannock County, 15-50, in the third meet of the season. This was the only victory the runners claimed. Coach Dennis Gordon accredited this record to the youth and inexperience of the team.

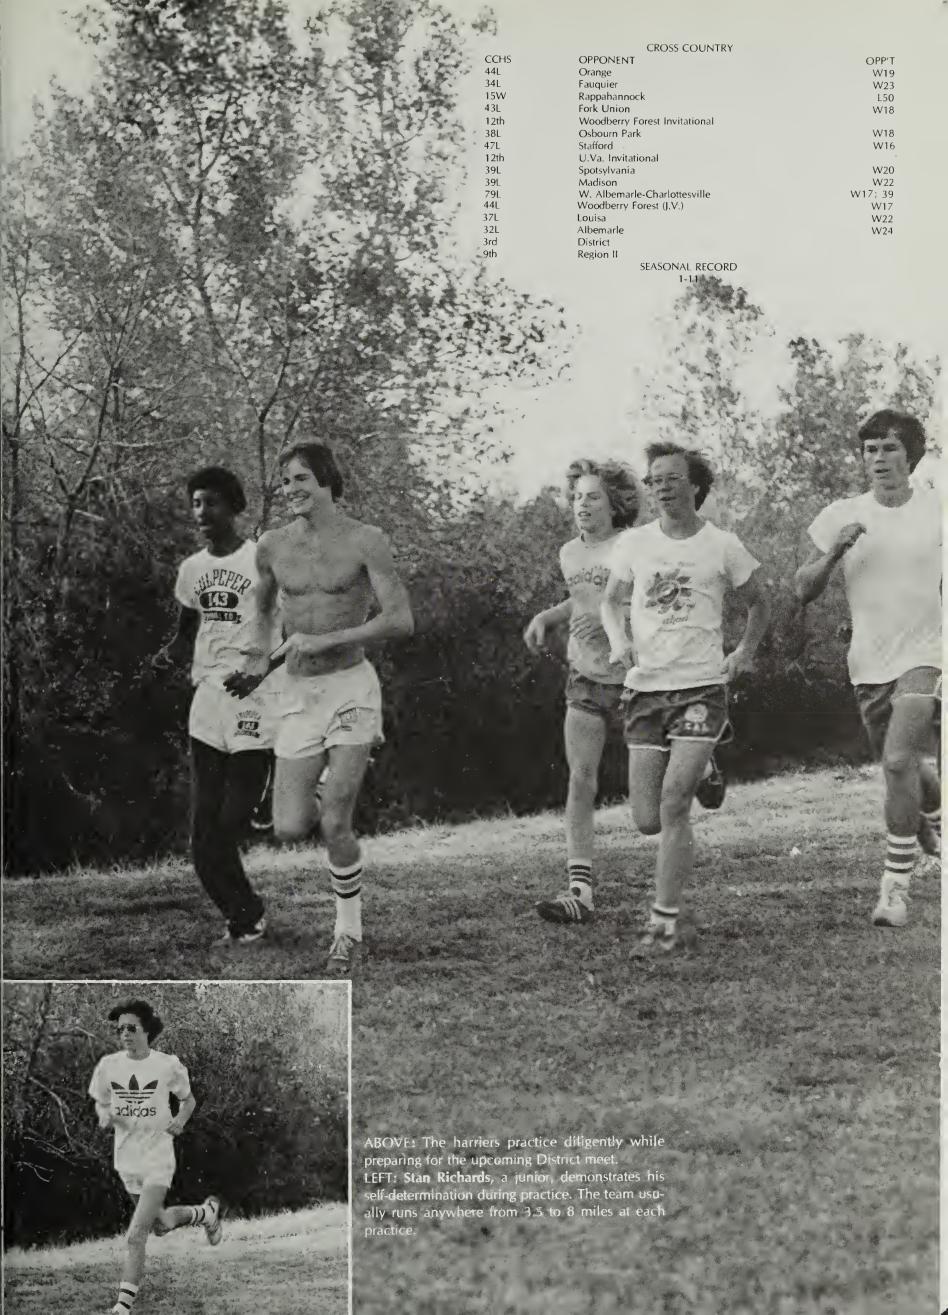

There were two returning Varsity runners, one of whom was Wallace Alphin. Wallace, the team's number one runner, placed first or second in six of his races and placed in the top five in all the dual meets. In the District meet, he finished seventh out of thirty runners.

As the season progressed, the team improved steadily. It placed third in the District meet and finished ninth in the Regional II meet. With sixteen runners returning next year, the team looks forward to a winning season.

Break Those Piggybanks!

It takes a bite out of all of us. It decides how much the car can be driven, where to go on a date, and even the amount of one's education. What could have this much control over lives? Money.

Bucks, green stuff, moola, bills . . . no matter how you slice it, it comes up short. As we grow older, money becomes increasingly more important.

How Much Does It Cost?

After what many players felt were tough practices the Varsity basketball team with coach Simon Poole came in fourth in the District.

In the beginning of the season the guys battled against tough opponents. One of the hardest games was against Harrison-burg. With their 7'3" player there was no match in height, but with the Devil's skill the game was both close and exciting.

During the Christmas tournament Culpeper lost to Orange 69-71 in overtime during the second round. Despite the loss, Steve Lyons was named most valuable player.

Roland Pollard's experience helped him to become the high scorer with Steve Lyons being the leading rebounder for the season.

The J.V. basketball team seemed to think their coach, Billy Thornhill pushed them hard during practice. His efforts were well worth the trouble when the team came in second in regular season play, and in the tournament.

Sophomore Olen All felt they had a very talented team with a lot of skill, but at times found it hard to put it all together.

Daryl Robinson was the J.V. high scorer and top rebounder. He was moved up to Varsity for three games as the team battled on.

Gymnasts Make Regionals

The gymnastic team was faced with many obstacles which had to be overcome to make their season work. First, they had to deal with the fact that there were few experienced girls on the team. Second, there was the problem of not having enough equipment. Lastly, there was also the problem with injuries.

Almost every member experienced some sort of ache or pain at some time during the season. Liza Ferlazzo had the bad misfortune of breaking her leg. The team used their share of tape by wrapping wrists and ankles as a safeguard against more injuries.

Despite the odds against them, the team overcame them and three of their members were able to make it to regionals. This was a first in the history of Culpeper gymnastics. Patty Lewis, Laura Norris, and Cindy Wenzel represented Culpeper in the regional tournament.

John Carlton and John Strother were among the Culpeper wrestlers involved in the state tournament in Christiansburg. Wrestling since junior high, both guys came home state champions in their weight classes. John Strother, with an undefeated season, racked this up as his second year in a row as a state champ.

Second Time Around

Culpeper's wrestling team came out with a 10-2 record at the end of their season. The team placed first in regionals and were fourth in the state for the second year in a row.

Coach Grey got the members in shape by conditioning them and it all paid off because Culpeper was usually in better shape than their opponents.

Four of the team's members placed in the state tournament. Mike Dinkins (98 lbs.) and Dennis Corbin (145 lbs.) placed sixth. John Carlton (126 lbs.) and John Strother (132 lbs.) placed first. John Strother was also state champ last year, making him Culpeper's first two time winner. Coach Grey commented, "To win it two years in a row is quite an accomplishment."

At Your Service

Undertaking many projects to improve student life, the SCA was one of the more active organizations in the school. The SCA provided a senior courtyard and a workable senior lunch line at the beginning of the year. A jukebox for the cafeteria soon followed for the student's listening pleasure.

As always, Homecoming Week proved to be an important part of the SCA's program. Each day had a different emphasis to raise spirit. The week was highlighted by the Homecoming game and dance.

Christmas provided more opportunities with the SCA sponsored door decorations and food baskets. The response to the food basket was the greatest in recent years. As a reward for their work the advisors treated the representatives to a Christmas party at the last meeting of 1978.

A new addition was the Valentines Dance. The week before the dance was brightened by the flowers sent by secret admirers to their friends and lovers on Valentine's Day.

The SCA spent a busy year working for the students they represented. The school was a better place because of it.

Recognition For Achievement

The induction of twenty new members highlighted the activities of the National Honor Society. These students were recognized for their outstanding achievements, character, and leadership qualities. Ms. Isabelle Rucker, Director of Programs for the Gifted of the State Department of Education, gave the keynote address at the induction ceremony.

Later in the year a group of members visited the campus of the University of Virginia to survey its programs. The NHS also held a candy sale in February to raise money for scholarships for two graduating seniors.

During the year various guest speakers came to address the club during meetings. The NHS proved to be a reward for those students who put out that little extra in their school activities.

The language clubs provide an opportunity for students taking language courses to meet together and practice the aspects of the cultures that their language belongs to.

The French club enjoyed French food throughout the year along with various other phases of the French culture.

The Spanish club also sampled the food of the country. At Christmas they followed the Spanish tradition of breaking a pinata filled with many treats. Watching the wild, blindfolded swings of members trying to break the pinata was entertainment enough for most of the club.

The Latin club held its annual Roman banquet featuring the many different foods and drinks of the Roman people. The highlight of the year was the trip to Europe. Some members of the Latin club visited Rome and Greece in a memorable trip during the spring.

What's On The Agenda?

Entering a language club meeting, one could never really be sure what might happen. During some months there were not many things on the agenda. In these instances the sponsors and club presidents would get together and plan entertainment for the club members.

The French Club could always depend on food from their culture. By far the French Club ate more than the other two language clubs combined. Members also enjoyed arguing over dates for future basketball games with other clubs.

The Latin Club had many different looks. During one meeting Mrs. Yancey showed home movies from trips to Europe. At another meeting the sponsor was unexpectedly absent, forcing the president to ad lib the entire meeting with various humorous comments and observations.

The Spanish Club spent much of their time planning future eating excursions and basketball games. A game with the Latin Club was planned at various times over a five month period. If the two clubs ever did finally get around to playing each other, it was a secret to most people.

Ace In The Hole

This year the Ace Award, highest award given to any Hi-Y club, was presented to the local chapter for the fifteenth year in a row. Culpeper's Hi-Y was one of two clubs to receive this honor in Virginia.

In November ten members went to the District Conference in Strasburg to prepare for Model General Assembly. At this meeting, Martha Browning was elected Senate Journal Clerk and Lou Button was voted Senate Gallery Door Keeper. These two girls went in March along with seven other people to the mock assembly.

For the first time Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y merged to form one club. Bud Hobeck commented, "More things get done and it is more organized." Karen Canavan added, "Candy sales will improve!" (More profits).

One of the club's most successful fundraising projects was a car wash in October. This project raised over 130 dollars. That money plus other funds went toward Model General Assembly, the World Mission Fund, and other service projects.

Challenge And Relaxation

Some clubs are limited in the range of activities they offer their members. Although narrow in scope, these clubs are no less important than any others.

The Chess Club offers its members a chance to sharpen their skills on the chessboard. During their meetings students are paired off with each other to play chess. This helps to prepare them for the school tournament which is sponsored by the club. Open to all students, the tournament has been won by Lyle Brooks for the last two years. This year's tournament was held during the second semester.

The Library Club offers a relaxed attitude for its members. Not wishing to subject its members to the pressure and sometimes overwhelming responsibilities of other clubs, the Library Club provides the opportunity for members to meet together and enjoy themselves. Along with this, the club welcomes many guest speakers who cover a wide variety of topics. It is an entertaining alternative to staying in study hall during activity period.

Rockers Aid March Of Dimes

Have you ever purchased something at school? If so you may have been in contact with the Future Business Leaders of America. The club is devoted to preparing its members for a future of buying and selling commercially.

Rated second in the nation for performance, the 143 members of FBLA definitely have something to be proud of. Several members and advisors hold positions of importance in the state and national branches of FBLA. Examples are: David Ryder, Virginia FBLA President; Mrs. Revere Houck, National FBLA Board of Directors; and Mrs. Margery Furguiele, Virginia FBLA State Advisor, among others.

One major project was planned for each month. The December Rock-a-thon helped the March of Dimes. While rockers rocked (in their chairs), pledges added up. About $1,000 was raised, and many participants lasted for the count.

Rockers (con't.)

Civic duties were a main stay of FBLA. The club sang Christmas carols at the Virginia Baptist Home for the Aged.

Aiding in the development of their sales techniques, FBLA'ers sold "Sandy kits." These novelties were solicited and finally distributed by members.

During the summer Kathy Winkler took part in the National FBLA conference where she ran for National Secretary. After a tough three day campaign rally, Kathy placed second.

Jobs arranged by the club helped introduce some to the business world. A part of the day could be set aside to allow extra time to work. The credentials received by members is a sure reference as to one's ability.

The climax of the year was the chain of conferences held in Harrisonburg, Richmond, and New Orleans, Louisiana.

DECA

Dedication Pays Off

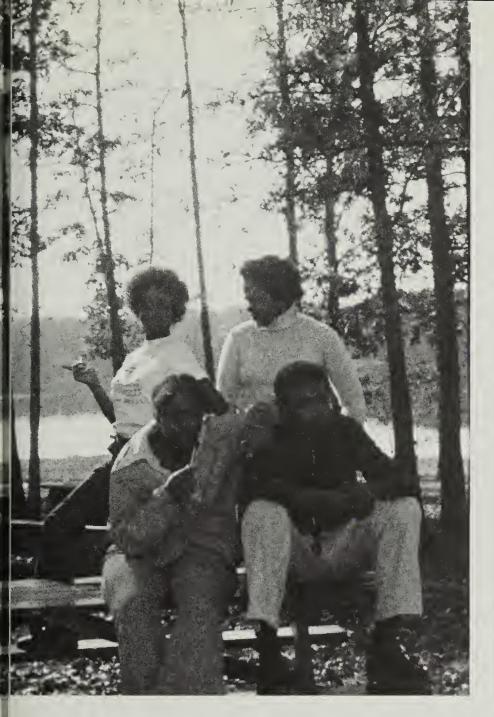

More and more school is preparing people for the real world. DECA trains students for careers in marketing, merchandizing and management. As a club DECA has been involved in a number of activities including basketball games against other clubs and dances. They participated in contests in and out of school. One of these contests was the election of a student of the year. That person must participate in DECA activities and show their enthusiasm in DECA.

DECA had money programs that included candy sales, rallies and car washes. The profits were spent on sending DECA members to many competitions, state and national. The DECA club also sponsored the coke machines throughout the high school.

This past year Ronnie Colbert prepared and gave a radio broadcast concerning retail merchandizing. Mike Wood the president of the club made a speech to Retail Merchants at the Holiday Inn.

At the end of each year the club sponsors an employer-employee banquet. This gives the students a chance to show their appreciation toward their employers.

Shaping Minds For The Future

Leadership, cooperation and citizenship are the qualities the FFA and FHA instill in their members. Both these clubs prepare people for the life that lays ahead.

Most of the FFA activities revolve around the happenings in the county. These include the Farm Show in July, contests in dairy work and forest judging. Scott Lohr, Jeff Lohr, Frank Demerest, Bruce Sandford and Richard Woodley placed in the forest judging contest this past fall. For a money making project the club members sold oranges and grapefruits. Each year the members enter a float in the Firemen's Parade and attend the FFA state conventions in Blacksburg. At the end of the year they have an annual awards banquet. This gives members a chance to be recognized for outstanding achievements.

The FHA set up a program of work circling around the theme of communication. The members of the club furnished refreshments for the faculty during the Christmas season. Some other activities that had been planned for the year were a fashion show in which the members modeled the clothes that they had made. A bazaar, mother and daughter dinner and a social hour are planned.

Athletic Excellence

For those who have lettered in a varsity sport there are the Varsity Club and the Girls' Athletic Association.

Members of the GAA had an active year. The club purchased much needed scoreboards for the athletic fields around the school in time for the hockey season. The GAA also held their annual initiation of new members. Along with catering to the demands of the old members during the school day, they had to perform at halftime of the basketball game that night. To top their year off, the GAA sold the ever-popular candy sticks to the student body while making a nice profit in the process.

Not holding their first meeting until December, the Varsity Club got off to a slow start. But with money made from the mug sale of last year, the club hoped to make up for lost time as the year proceeded.

New Transitions

The Pepergram, as such, has had some vast changes this year. Primarily, the name has changed, it is no longer the Pepergram but, instead, Inside Lookin' Out. Due to increased printing costs, the paper was taken over by the Star-Exponent in hopes of keeping it alive. Once a month, a section of the Star-Exponent is set aside for this purpose. All photography, reporting, and writing is still done by members of the staff, but production is handled by the Exponent.

The staff had the privilege of seeing how newspapers are produced at the downtown office and had the opportunity to help in that production at nights. Also, the photographers had access to a darkroom this year to develop their shots.

ON FACING PAGE: In place of homework, TV offers a welcome diversion. Glenn Printz stretches out to watch a night of his favorite shows.

It Doesn't End With School

For six periods a day, five days a week students were subject to quadratic equations, run-on sentences, and lab work. But when the 3:05 bell rang, a whole new world grabbed their attention.

People found a great deal of enjoyment from movies, music and television shows. Long lines could be found in front of marquees where Grease, Midnight Express, Magic, Goodbye Girl, Heaven Can Wait, Saturday Night Fever, Thank God It's Friday, Foul Play, and Animal House were playing. Trips to the theater provided a chance to forget the fast-pace action of the world.

Often a substitute for homework was television. Shows that demanded the viewing time of students were Mork and Mindy, Saturday Night Live, Battlestar Galatica, The Twilight Zone, Three's Company, and Sixty Minutes. Despite the ever-growing protests that television was bad for mental health, people continued to spend hours in front of the "boob tube".

Even Though Teachers Sometimes Forget .

Perhaps the most popular form of entertainment was music. Whether on the radio, stereo, or juke box, hit tunes were at students' fingertips. Disco artists that ruled the air waves included Donna Summers, The Trammps, The Commodores, The Bee Gees, and John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John. If disco wasn't listened to, then Gerry Raferty, Kansas, Boston, Rolling Stones, and Neil Diamond, plus many others kept the turn tables turning.

Of course, not every night could be Saturday night. Many people were forced to take on responsibilities in the form of homework and jobs. Forced to balance their time, students had to work hard to keep time open for good times.

Television, movies, and music gave students a world apart from school. Along with other friends, or maybe just by oneself, students thrived in an environment where boundaries were nonexistant, and the classroom was far away.

It Doesn't End With School

ON FACING PAGE: School forgotten, Steve Leavell enjoys spending the day outside. MOR-TICED: Tennis is a popular pastime with Bo Chase. THIS PAGE: ABOVE LEFT: Unfortunately, some people have to spend free time working. John Whitehead has one of the few office jobs. What's turned into the most varied required course in school? English! By appearance, it seems to be rather confined and limited, but English branches off into several directions.

Starting with Shakespeare, studies in Julius Caesar, Romeo and Juliet, and Macbeth tide tenth through twelfth graders through drama and literature. American as well as English works are an important part of the classroom life.

Reading lab offers individual programs in an effort to enhance the skills of a student. Concentration areas include speed, comprehension, and accuracy. Specialized classes such as American Civilization for Juniors and English Seminar for Seniors aid many college-bound students. All in all, even though English is a required subject, there is something in it for everyone.

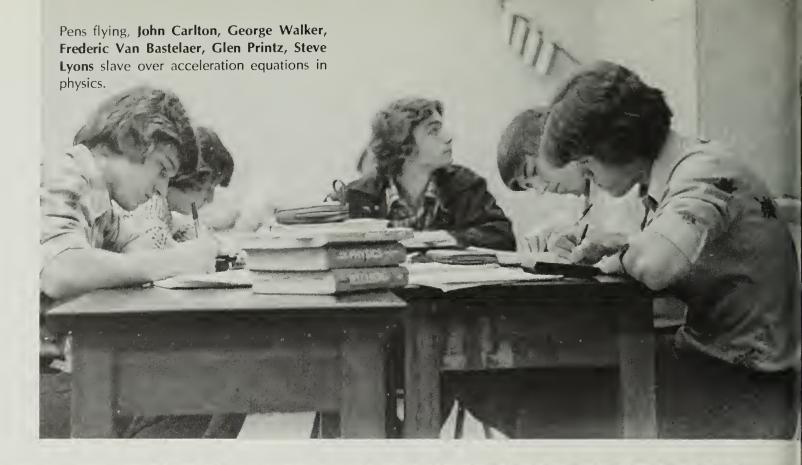

Something For Everyone

Diversity Is The Formula Of Science

Too often science is considered only one course. Not one, but many interests span the years: earth sciences to physics, basic knowledge to mind bending preciseness.

"A preview of what's to come" is how Bruce Sanford refers to earth sciences. Studies in numerous fields present new courses to the layman.

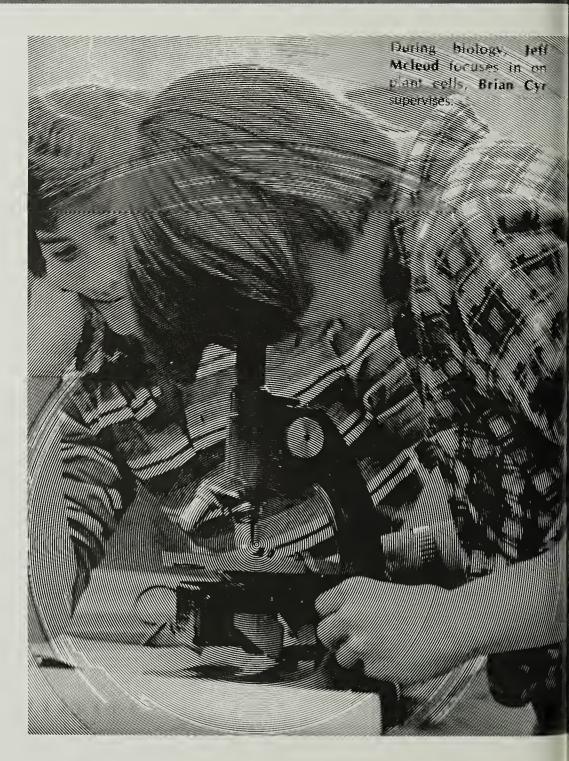

Biochemistry, cells, and heredity are adaptations of biology. Labs are sometimes "a little gory" according to Ernie Greaver, "but they add interest to it."

Chemistry, under the eye of Mr. Earles, "is explosive" as Paula Reynolds puts it. The excitement lends itself to learning.

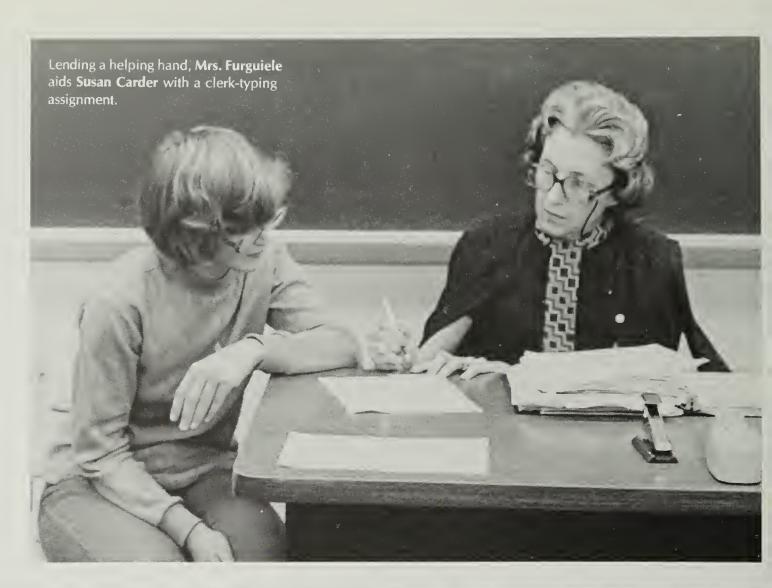

A newer science, psychology is a "mirror to the mind" or so Joan Brackowiecki says. It is now coached by Mr. Seward. Expressing the "quirks of other's personalities," Diane Hitt feels that this class helps students understand themselves.

And at last here is physics. "A good preparation for college," Debbie Bean believes it is very like the real thing.

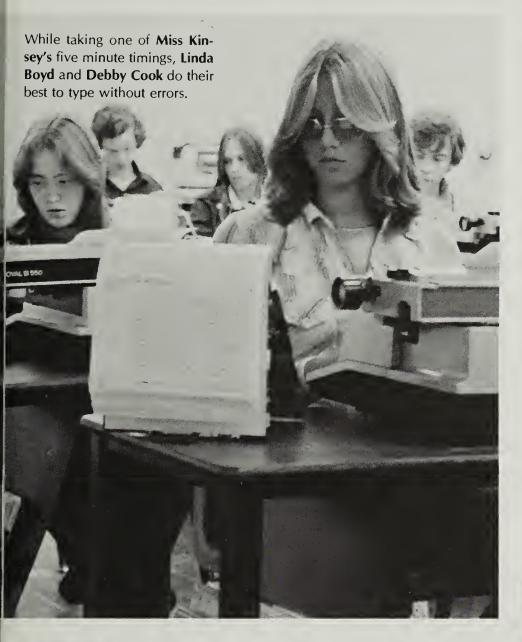

There's the fare. Some have no stomach for the research and study. Others have an unquenchable appetite.

Accounting, business law, stenography, typing, and clerk typing are all a part of the business department. New machines, ideas, and materials make learning, as well as teaching a new experience. Business classes require a lot of work but can be very beneficial. A business student can easily find a job by coming directly from high school without any further education.

Future Business Leaders of America also plays an important role as it teaches students to follow parliamentary procedure and work together as a group. Our FBLA has in the past and is still continuing to earn very strong national honors.

In short, the business department is continuing to win all the way around.

From All Angles

The purpose of Social Studies is to give a better idea of life in the world. It not only explores the past and examines the present, but also investigates the possibilities of the future. With clearer understanding of what man has done and will do, a person can enter the world with a better understanding of it.

World History plunges into the study of the earliest civilizations to the society of today. It is an in-depth study of the cultures of the people with the hope of better understanding their motivations.

U.S. History examines the roots of America and its progress through revolution, civil war, industrialization, modernization, and civil rights. It is concerned with the facts of history with an occasional look at the characters of those who made history.

Government is the study of the workings and theories of American Government. It's an extensive study of the Constitution and all of the many offsprings brought about by it. Government Seminar was a new addition to the program. It is a deeper investigation of the political system and involves much research.

Foreign languages are an essential part of academic studies. Spanish, French, and Latin are offered to fulfill the needs of college bound students.

The classroom curriculum goes from singing of Christmas Carols in all three languages to breaking pinatas in Spanish, a puppet show in French, and a toga party in Latin.

Each Language is important in its own way. Basics of grammar and vocabulary must be learned before a student can relate to foreign speech.

Mrs. Yancey believes Latin gives students perspective which in many cases is more important than relevance. Many Spanish as well as French students say they took their language in hopes of being able to use it in future travel.

Each year the Home Economics students study something different. The students learned how to sew garments of their choice. Some crocheted and knitted afghans, while others worked on some other form of needlepoint. Later in the year, the Home Economics' students were given instructions on food preparation. They excelled in preparing Mexican and Italian dishes and French pastries.

Family Living and Home Economics are rewarding for anyone who takes them. These courses help the student to understand what lies ahead for him, and, because of the practicality of the classes, the student can put his knowledge to work right now.

A new asset to the math department, the Virginia Mathematic's League Contest, was offered for the first time to Trigonometry and Calculus students. The monthly tests gave students an opportunity to try the skills at advanced problems. After the tests were graded the top five scores were sent into the Mathematic's League for ratings.

Algebra and Geometry students focused their attention on proofs, word problems, and theorems. People enrolled in these classes for various reasons. Karen Lipscomb, commenting on Algebra II class, said "I took the class simply because I love math." And Joe Magura chose the course because "I needed it to understand the advanced math and science classes."

With the use of the calculator room, business and consumer math students learned how to figure business reports, applications, etc. After people passed these courses, they were prepared for the world of economics.

A Break From The Routine

Everyone needs a break from the regular routine. PE is a combination of mental and physical education that gives a person the chance to constructively let loose his feelings. With it, he can often find strengths and weaknesses outside of academics.

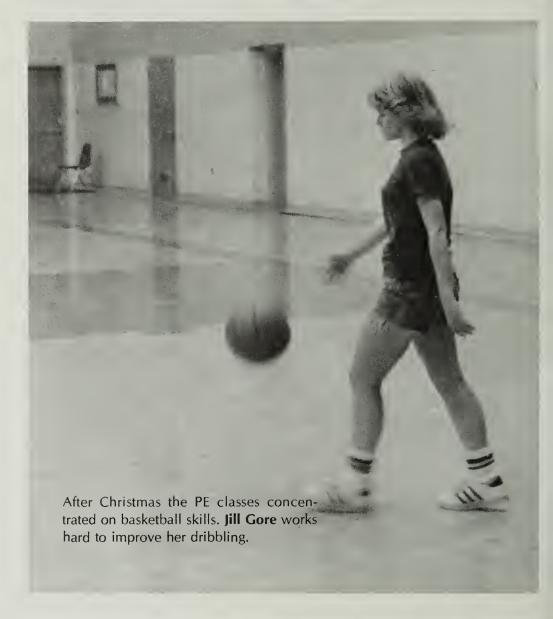

Badminton, archery, and recreational activities like ping-pong and shuffleboard are taught throughout the year. Mr. Wenzel feels that archery and soccer rank high as favorites.

Changes have come to the department with new two-piece gymsuits for both sexes. Scheduling is also different with less-frequent changes from classroom to PE.

More on an individual level, PE for 11th and 12th graders teaches golf, flag football, etc. The people learn to officiate games and get a chance to practice what they learn.

In Driver's Ed. Miss Boyd sees super attitudes towards driving. It seems that driving is the most important thing in their lives at that moment.

Giant strides have been made in the PE department. Yet, Mrs. Templeton would love to see some intercollegiate volleyball or even fencing become a part of the curriculum.

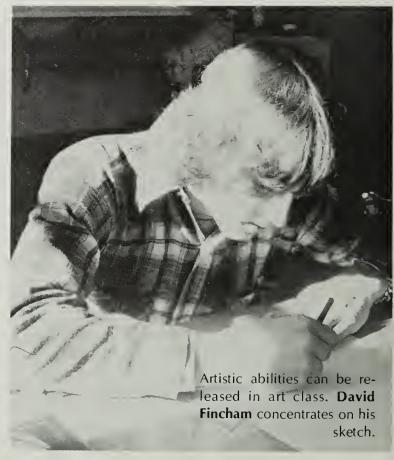

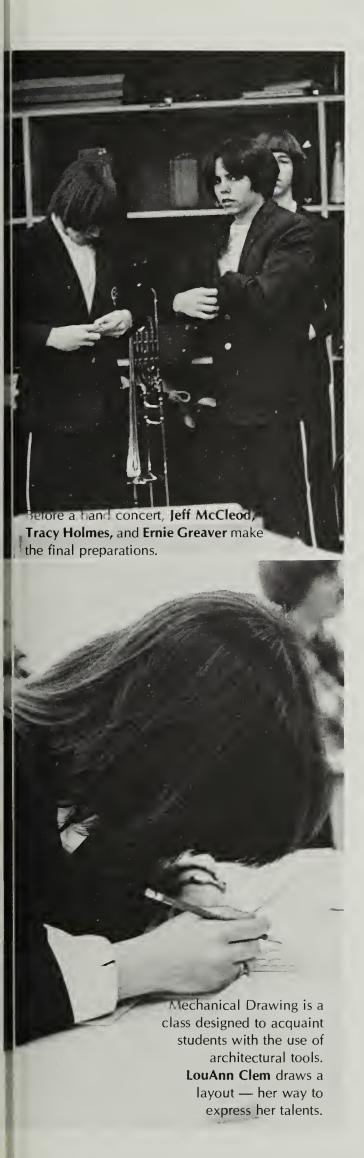

EXTREME ABOVE: One of the most popular units this year was gymnastics. Glen Lanham practices keeping his balance before advancing to knee-drops and turns. Creative Arts

Outlets For Expression

The late 70's have been a time of self-expression. Each person's uniqueness becoming more and more essential in every-day life. Following those lines the Creative Arts offered at our school allow the individual to stand out and be recognized.

Most of the Creative Arts encompass an elective class and/or a club. Each attempts to discover and develop talents that lie within us all. Often these are specialized courses that give a student a more indepth look at Art and its purposes.

Creative Arts could be Band, Drama, or Chorus — where the visual and the aural effects are important. Or there's Industrial Arts, Mechanical Drawing, Art, or Media — where the imagination produces tangible objects. The point is, these clubs, classes, and organizations provide an extra incentive for people to turn into persons.

On September 30, Culpeper held their first Invitational Marching Band Contest provoking an annual contest in the years to come. The decision by the instrumental music department to make it an annual event was sparked by the good attendance, around three hundred and twenty-five people, and by the great amount of enthusiasm they showed.

There were two particularly unique aspects to this contest. First, the judges were high school band directors instead of the usual professional judges. Second, the bands were classified according to the size of the band instead of being grouped according to the size of the school.

There were two classifications for the participating bands — Class A for bands with more than sixty-five members and Class B for bands with less than sixty-five members. The results were as follows: Class A

- 1) Spotsylvania Superior, Best band front and best drum major.
- 2) Albemarle Excellent.

Class B

- 1) Nelson County Superior, Best band front, best drum major.
- 2) Cox Excellent.

Handley — Excellent.

Culpeper — Excellent.

Osbourne — Good.

Fauquier — Good.

What group here at CCHS, (besides football) begins school weeks before everyone else? The Band of course. The Marching Blue Devils worked on their show through the summer heat and winter cold. They marched at every home football game and attended marching competitions all over the state. This year competing in parades and field marching, the band went to the JMU Homecoming Parade, the Orange and Fredericksburg Christmas Parades, not to mention the Culpeper fireman's parade. Buena Vista, Mount Vernon and the MBA Championships were some of the places they competed in field marching this year.

Symphonic Band picked up where marching band ended. They gave concerts at Christmas for the public and for the school. During the winter months practicing for the Spring Concert and Festival kept everyone in band busy.

Jazz is the music that almost everyone enjoys. The Jazz group here at CCHS is only for those instruments and students with true rhythm in their souls. The Jazz group this year was not as large as it had been in the past, but as the old saying goes, "Better things come from smaller packages."

This spring, the Culpeper bands were invited to participate in the National, International Music Festival in Wildwood, New Jersey. They left May 11th and returned on May 15th. These five days will be remembered as being one of the best grips the band has experienced. All band members spent many hours practicing and selling products to get ready for the special out-of-state trip. All band groups, Symphonic Band, Marching Band, and Jazz Band participated in this festival.

Creative Arts

When enrolled in industrial arts and mechanical drawing, students have a chance to work with their hands and with their interests. After industrialists had mastered the basic skills, individuals branched out and thought of things to build. Some projects that were common, such as desk organizers and candle holders, were made from plans Mr. Bulheller supplied. Industrial arts club members used their skills to benefit the community. A special chair was designed and built for a handicapped child. Most members were also in the class of IA. Mechanical drawing students prepared themselves for drafting at Piedmont. The class taught students to use the tools of architects and designers.

BELOW: As part of "A Christmas Story," Kevin Campbell gets ready to sing "O Holy Night" while Bill Baker, Mitch Gore, and Susan Critchley look on. More than 200 People viewed the program that the Select Choir put on over the holidays.

Gone are the days when members of the Select Choir and the Treble Choir only needed to have good voices. Choir members were taught by Miss Keller many facets of music theory and appreciation; by listening to an assortment of songs, everything from Bach to "A Chorus Line," they learned to distinguish between a variety of instruments, to determine the meter signature, and to evaluate the music in many other ways. Both classes were a surprise to many of the choir members because of the effort involved; few expected to have to study for the exams, and when faced with the tests, most found they had underestimated what they needed to know.

In addition to studying definitions of music and rhythm, the Select and Treble Choirs prepared a number of songs for their performances. The Fall Block Party, where the choirs performed for the enjoyment of those looking at various displays of arts and crafts; the traditional Christmas and Spring concerts; Regional Chorus, which Select Choir members Grace Brani, Mitch Gore, Rena Reed, and Terry Seiter attended in February. These performances, along with the District IX Festival, were only a few of the activities for which both choirs worked long and hard.

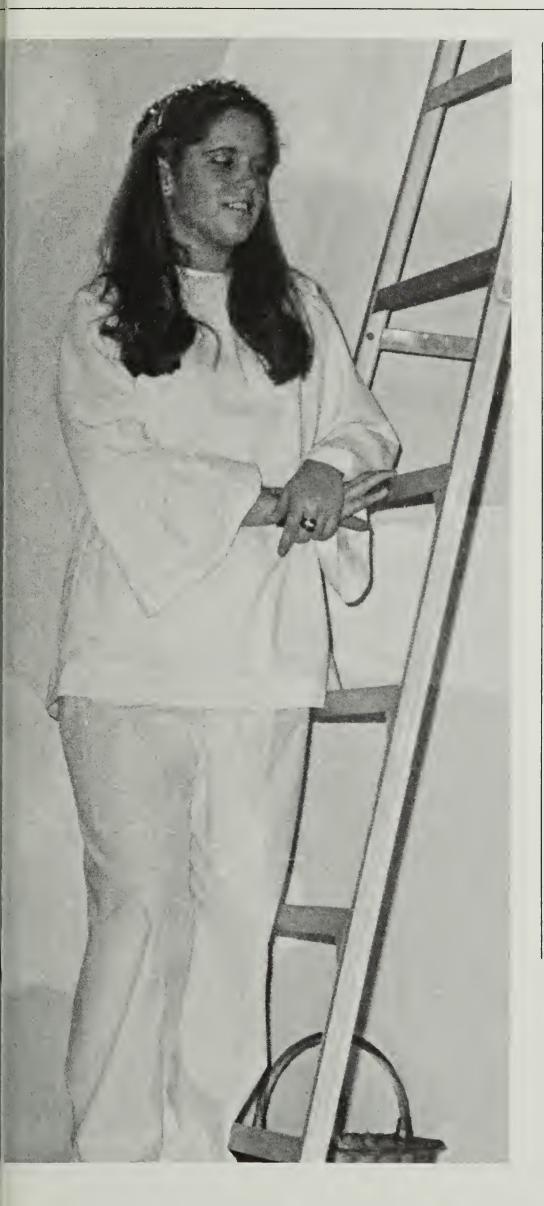

The Christmas season was in many ways the busiest part of the year for Miss Keller and the choirs. Over the holidays
Treble Choir members Mary Bates, Bessie Lane, Everetta Lewis, Phyllis Minor, and Conni Perry sang at the Holiday Inn for the Optimists Club. And in conjunction with Culpeper's Little Theatre the Select Choir members put on "A Christmas Story", a dramatic musical by Anita Kerr. The story centered on the angels (the choir members, as a whole) and their reaction to not only Christ's birth, but also the entrance of a new angel (Kevin Campbell) into heaven. It featured solos by Diedra Banks, Kevin Campbell, Kelley Inskeep, and Terry Seiter, two dance routines, and a double-quartet that sang "Silent Night" a capella. The musical was a big success, as well as being the most ambitious project ever undertaken by the Choral department.

For the first time, Culpeper was the host for the District IX Choral Festival. At Festival, small and large ensembles, and soloists from Loudoun, Prince William, Clarke, Fauquier, Culpeper, and Rappahannock counties were judged on a scale of 1 to 4 (1 being the best). The judges, themselves high school or college choral directors, listened to and rated approximately thirty different groups. Being the host school required a lot of extra effort from the choirs, but as a result everything went smoothly.

Another big success was the choirs' fall fund-raising project where once again stationery, cards, and calendars were sold. High salesperson Diedra Banks sold $193 worth of stationery, and both choirs together sold $878. The money went for the Select Choir's new grey tuxes and cranberry gowns, which they wore for the first time at their Christmas concert.

Try-outs, practices, performances, "listening exercises", warm-ups, and more. Select and Treble Choir members put a lot of work into everything they did, and they earned the good results.

Techniques Have Changed

With new teachers come new techniques. Mr. Smith, who came to Culpeper High from New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, brought with him many new methods of teaching drama. One of Mr. Smith's philosophies is "Acting is learning" as shown in his drama one class. The students were given the opportunity to act on stage rather than learning strictly from the book. As part of the curriculum, each actor — or actress-to-be had to present at least three scenes each nine weeks. Some students were so pleased with their accomplishments, that they did as many as six. To further expose the students to the arts, the class presented a morality play entitled Everyman to the fine arts committee of Culpeper on January 17, 1979.

Drama two studied dramatic methods, set building, and lighting techniques. As part of their practical experience they planned and built sets for the fall and spring plays.

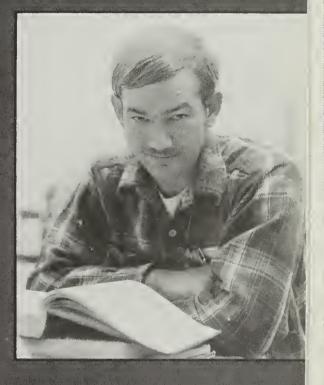

The drama club's fall production was "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder. The play focused on a small American town called Grovers Corners. Two families were spotlighted with their joys, pains, and problems. Thirty people made up the cast, the majority of which were new to the CCHS stage. Approximately 200 people in the community attended the performances on November 17 and 18.

Explorers

We began together, but because our paths differed — we became individuals. Everyone has gone through changes as new things have been discovered. Our journey to the mountains has just begun.

Shake That Dust!

1979's Senior class led the underclassmen with sparked enthusiasm during the pep rallies. The effect was enough noise and applause to "shake the dust from the rafters" as Coach Bulheller asked at the one held before the Albemarle game. At times it was hard to tell if the spirit was intended for the team or their class. Whatever the reason, if pandemonium was needed, the Seniors produced it!

Seniors at a pep rally turn their backs on the underclassmen.

Fashions Take Priority

The teenagers of the '70's have their own style of fashion. When Seniors buy clothes they look forward to college. But that's only one reason. The clothes Seniors wear bring out their personalities. Seniors dress in style but, there are always days when the best thing to do is be a bum.

Today's fashions are mid-skirts, straight leg pants, sweaters, sun-dresses and the all time favorite, jeans!

Modeling her sweater and jeans is Kay Roberts.

Wide Variety Of Hair Styles

Hair styles became more important to Seniors. People spent many a morning washing, drying, and styling their hair. Whether it was curls, waves, wings, 'fro's, or permanents, hair styles helped shape the look of the times.

Take Note Of These

Talent is evident all over the school and the Class of '79 has its share of artists. They often go unnoticed and unappreciated. Seniors Lou Button, Inez Pesquera, and Reba Rumley have sold many of their sketches and paintings. Because of his ability, Chris Christensen has received recognition in a number of his classes. These Seniors stand as examples of the many talented students in the Class of '79.

First Time Since Fourth Grade

What is it like to be a senior and have a younger brother or sister in the same school since elementary grades? For the first time since fourth grade, Seniors are again with their brothers and sisters who are two years younger. The emotions concerning this situation are mixed. Some think it's terrific and a lot of fun. Others believe their younger brothers and sisters are pests. However, on the whole, most Seniors don't give them another thought.

Seniors Give Blood

"We all really showed the town," commented Senior Sherry Davis. In fact, a total of 86 students donated blood at the local blood mobile November 13. According to officials it was the largest community turn out for blood doners in the history of the Metropolitan Region.

There's Some Extra Growth

Among the Seniors who view Levi's jeans as a major social symbol, a moustache can bring a great deal of acceptance and respect. At a time in life when many are desiring to appear older and more sophisticated, a beard or moustache fulfills that wish. No razors here — extra hair is here to stay!

What's Next?

Marriage? College? A job? One of the biggest concerns of Seniors was the future. For the past twelve years the main goal of the Senior class was to graduate, but after the diplomas were handed out, each individual was faced with many new decisions.

Cecelia McDearmon, "I want to do something with my life: go to college, travel. One day I want to get married, but not when I am twenty."

Rena Reed, "Everything is very uncertain and I am hoping that it turns out all right."

Donna Blevins, "So many people have helped me the past twelve years. I hope I can do it by myself."

It's A Special Relationship

How would it feel to have the same birthday and classes as someone else in one's family? Well, the Senior class has its share of twins. Is it a hassle? What are the advantages? Ask the Woolfolks (Rochelle, Michelle), the Polks (Linda and Dana), the Settles (Phil and Pat), or the Drumgooles (Valerie and Vera).

Alike yet distinctly different, Phil and Pat Settle can recall some special memories in their lives as twins. Like all the sets of twins in the Class of '79, they can't claim to be identical.

One Less Year Of School

When asked why they dropped their Junior year, the most frequent answer given by grade-skipping Seniors was to get out of school earlier. To hurry into college, be in classes with friends, or to just start doing what they want to do with their lives were all reasons enough for "premature Seniors" to suffer through a session of summer school.

Seniors Explore The Job World

There are a variety of jobs in town for the conscientious worker. Food places, clerk jobs, pumping gas, department store help, bank tellers — the list is endless. Many of these positions were held by Seniors.

Why would these students who already have school schedules to keep spend most of their spare time working? Most Seniors said money was a major consideration as well as the experience of having to budget their time.

Never Too Old . . . To Be Afraid

When the members of the Class of '79 were younger, they each had their own little fears. Some were afraid of the dark, some were afraid of being left alone, and some were afraid of the boogie man. Even though the Seniors have since grown up, they still have phobias. The most common fears are of heights and of tight, closed-in places. However, many are intimidated by large dogs, rodents, snakes, and even small children. Others still dread the dark and windy, starless nights.

Besides these common frights, here are more profound phobias. The fear of being left alone causes many to panic. Other students have qualms about not being accepted by their peers and therefore try to conform to the standards set by other students. Being stranded in remote areas is another fear felt by many, as is the fear of dying.

The class of '79 has phobias that can be felt only by Seniors. As soon as the final year begins, they start to feel anxious about the future. The fear of failing the very last year causes seniors to become more studious and to try harder in their classes. As graduation looms closer and closer, many Seniors become frightened. For the first time in their lives, they will be solely responsible for themselves. Many see this change as terrifying and horrifying. And, there's always the fear that they will not be accepted to a college or that they will find no employment after graduation.

Phobias, no matter how small or how large, are numerous among the Seniors at CCHS. But no matter what they are, they can all be frightening and terrifying.

New Kids In Town

Anytime a person moves to a new town, adjustments must occur. Fitting into new classes, and meeting friends required time and patience of the "new kid in town."

New students found many differences in their old school and their location now. After arriving in Culpeper they found that spirit wasn't as noticeable here as in their hometown schools. They discovered several new sports here; however, soccer, lacrosse, and archery have yet to arrive as competitive sports.

These new additions missed some of their elective classes and wished there were more classes here.

These Juniors are new to CCHS: David Harvey, Janet Woodward, Conni Perry, Francine Poles, and Nick Christner.

No Bare Fingers!

Probably the most important accessory a Junior can claim is the all-important class ring. To each student it holds a special meaning, and now, more than ever before, a ring can be as individual as one wants.

More than just a piece of jewelry, it can be a sign of maturity, a coming-of-age. Years from now, a class ring will reflect the fond memories every Junior holds from their high school years.

4-H "Freedom to Be"

Ranging from clubs for cat lovers to homemakers, Culpeper has approximately thirty 4-H clubs. "Freedom To Be", the 1979 motto, applies to these enterprising organizations.

Colonnade interviewed juniors in 4-H. Each agreed that they enjoy the satisfaction of completing their projects. These include the raising of beef, sheep, pigs, and rabbits. The 4-H'ers show their exhibits in Kentucky, Maryland, and the State Fair in Virginia.

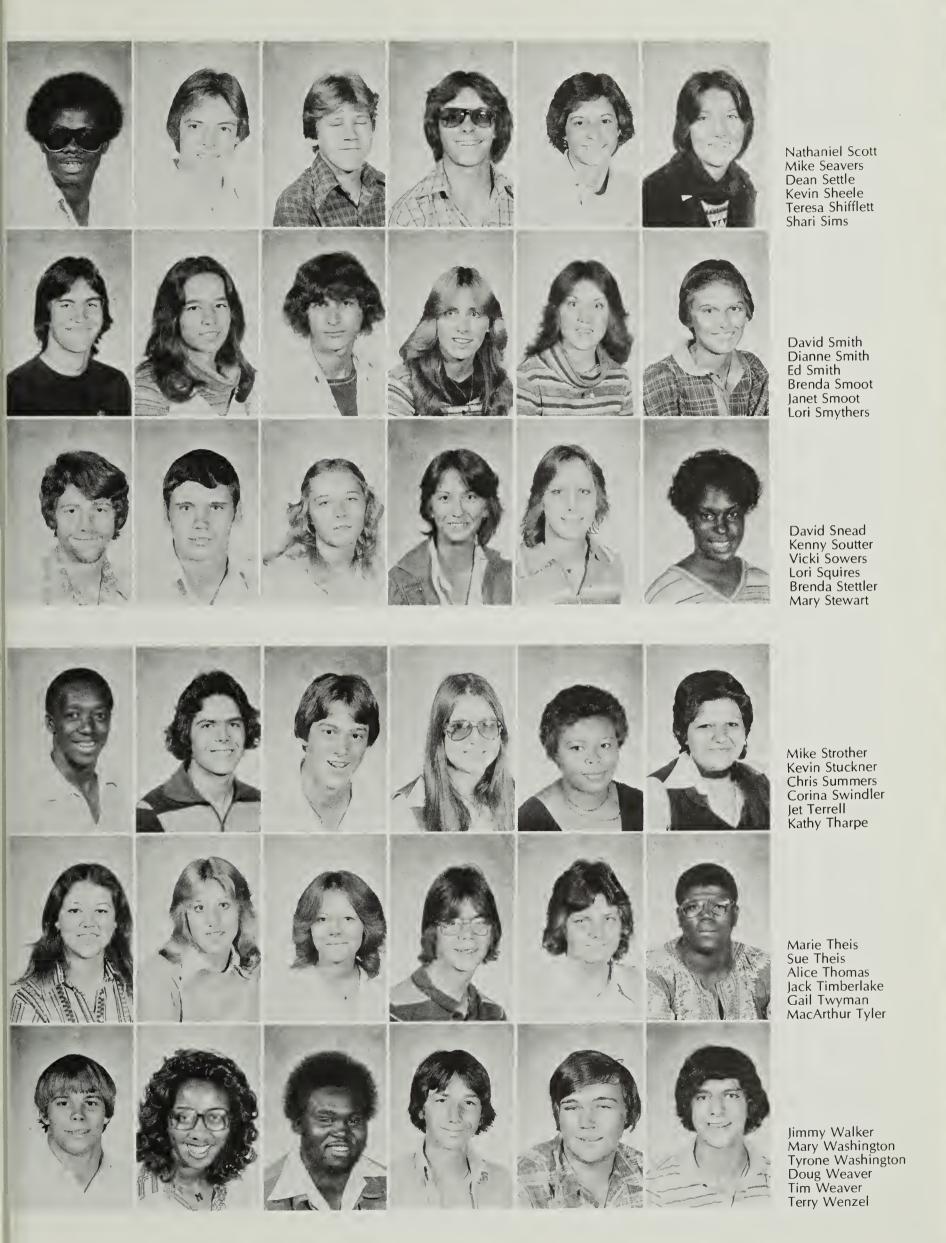

4-H members Maureen Peacock, Teresa Gilmore, Karen Whitlock, Hazel Zinn, and Sarah Platts with various trophies they have won.

Pulling Together

As Juniors realized that their high school years were fast coming to a close, they developed a special spirit of unity, as shown by the enthusiastic participation at pep rallies and increased attendance at sport events. During the decorating of the halls at the time of Homecoming, there was a higher representation of the class. The result was more fun and imaginative decorations. Hopefully, the spirit of the Juniors will continue to build and the Class of 1980 will know the meaning of community long after graduation day.

The Making Of An Individual

The Class of '80 distinguished itself from the scores of other students in school by means of their varied and unique hobbies. One of Geb Broman's favorites is sailboating while Nancy Brooks takes an interest in birdwatching. Then there's Juanita Richards' dancing and Doug Weaver's photography. Pianists Terri Hockett and Julie Bushong enjoy the fine arts with writer Teresa Pollard. Todd Kilby and John McGill go in for hunting while Stacy Payne uses horseback riding as an escape from everyday life. These are just a few of the Juniors who have cultivated interest outside of school.

Jrs — Caught In The Middle

The Junior year is a time of mixed emotions. College and career are pulling at one end, yet the 11th grader can't believe he has just one more year to go!

It is hard to see into the future and insecurity is often written on the faces of Juniors. Nevertheless, each feels that it is time to look ahead and plan.

The Junior year is filled with first-timers: PSAT's, term papers, prom, and so on. But somehow, someway the Junior class knows that seniority is just a step away.

Uncle Sam Wants Sophs

"I hate these things." "What are they there for?" "I always make designs out of them." These were familiar sounds in the cafeteria on November 27 as the Army gave out Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Batteries. The tests weren't to make one miserable, they're used to determine job capabilities.

There were twelve tests ranging from General Information to Space Perceptions. Test results don't necessarily mean only one job suits you. Rather, they suggest the areas one is most qualified in.

A New Way Of Life

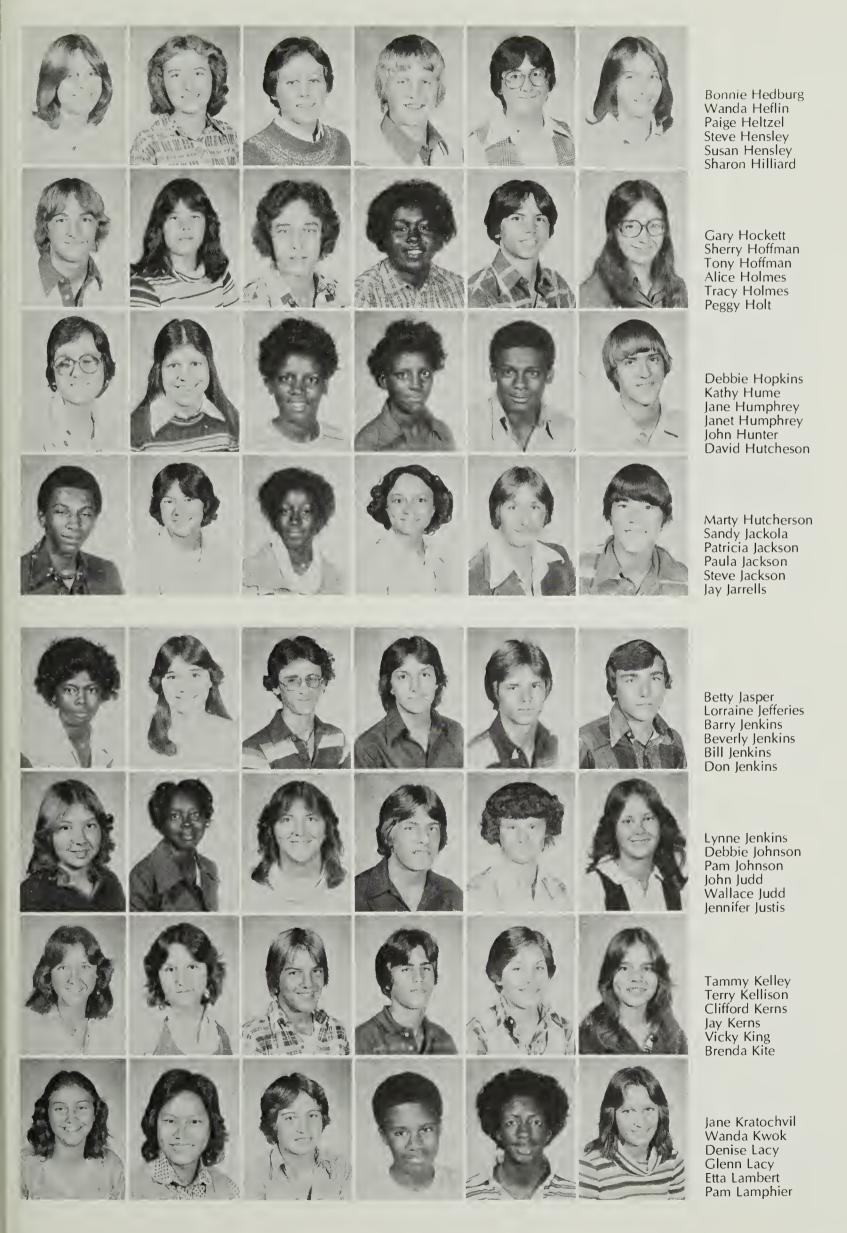

With a new school comes changes. Sophomores had a variety of new experiences to let them know that they had finally made it to the high school. More clubs, more classes, junior varsity sports, a more extensive library, and a bigger cafeteria assured the new-comers they would no longer be "the kids across the street."

Showing Off Their Stuff

The students were all set for another routine pep rally, expecting the Seniors to carry on the tradition of overwhelming the underclassmen with their spirit. Then the sophomores started to cheer. The tenth graders have shown a lot of spirit and can generate a great deal of noise. Their participation in Spirit Week was only one way they showed their cooperation. And so, for the first time in a long time, the Senior class had strong competition in the spirit department.

Piper Awarded

The Hugh O'Brian foundation was established to seek outstanding sophomores and provide them with leadership abilities.

There sophomores were selected to compete for this award. To be chosen for this, the students had to show leadership, sensitivity toward others and the desire to learn.

Linda Boyd, Paula Jackson and Mark Piper were the three sophomores so honored.

Mark Piper was chosen to represent Culpeper at a seminar in Richmond, Virginia. He competed with other sophomores for a trip to the International Leadership Seminar in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Main Event

One of the high points of the sophomore year is getting one's driver's license. After years of being chauffeured by parents and friends, many members of the sophomore class can now go wherever they want, whenever they want. To get their freedom, however, they must go through seemingly endless hours of classroom driver's education and "behind the wheel". These two combine to make each student an expert on everything from parallel parking to changing a flat tire, and to give them one of the major signs of maturity — the prized driver's license!

How To Identify A Sophomore

Find the students who:

- 1) know Caesar well enough to call him Julius.
- 2) walk out of biology labs in a scientific daze.
- 3) think sitting at the Senior table is a status symbol.
- 4) have the only hands in school without class rings on their fingers.
- 5) comprise the loudest and largest group at any pep rally.
- 6) are the club members who volunteer for everything.
- 7) tried to leave before the Class of '79.
- 8) attempt to cut in the Senior lunch line.
- 9) believe the best is yet to come.

Teaching Techniques

There are many different ways of teaching which affect the way students learn. Some of the different methods include demonstration, lecturing (as shown here by Mrs. Davies), independent study, and discussion.

Good Luck Seniors!

Look well to this day,
For Yesterday is a dream
And tomorrow, only a vision.
But today, well lived,
Makes every yesterday a dream,
of happiness.
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well, therefore, to this day.

The white stuff came, about 18 inches worth, and overstayed its welcome.

For some, the 11 days of vacation was a big relief. Others could see nothing but make-up Saturdays and cancelled holidays ahead.

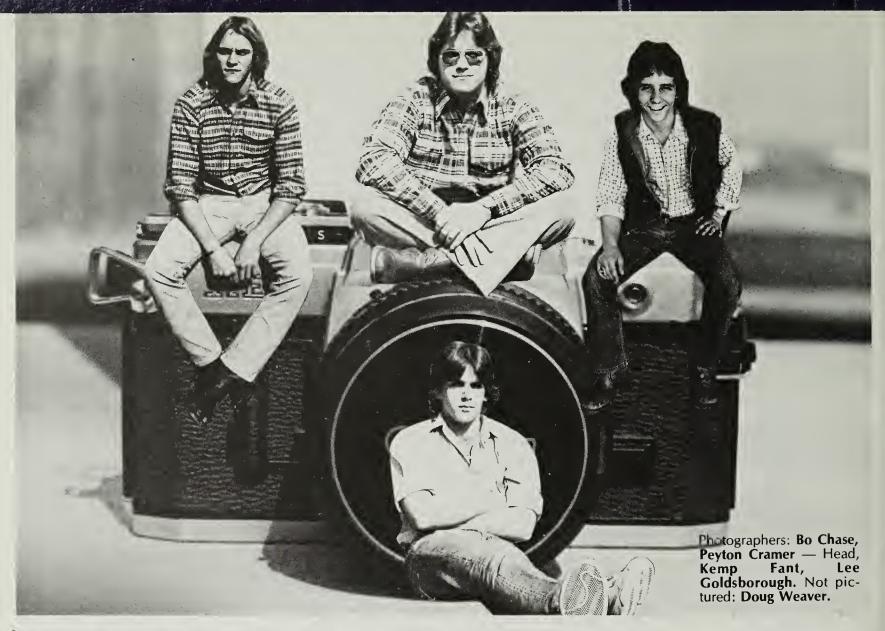

With the perfect conditions, Sheila Mitchell, Robin Jones, Sherri Morris, Dennis Gordon, and Karen Canavan grabbed their sleds and headed for the hills. Tammi Kelly and Leslie Garne preferred the ski slopes.

Nothing stopped the almighty buck — not even the weather! Diedra Phillips, Karl Taylor, Jean Settle, Cindy Jessup, Lin Heltzel, Donald Hume, and Sue Alford had work lined up for their free time. Term papers bogged down Terry Brown and Conni Perry. But wrestlers John Strother and Tim Panagos got a chance to work out on those snow days.

On a more unique line, Bev Lawrence saw the break as a chance to trace her ancestors. Jet Terrell played music all day while Missy Gore caught up on her soap operas. The bad weather didn't stop Lucy Lacy from going to D.C. or Mary Ellen O'Conner from visiting New York. And then there was Alan Storning, who did "a little bit of this, and a little bit of that."

ABOVE: The more you pile, the faster you go. The excessive amounts of snow brought out the fun in everyone.

Please No More Foot-Hills!

Foothills

Because of the Blue Ridge, Culpeper is exposed to a horizon of mountains.

As individuals, our experiences have led us nearer and nearer to the hills of our futures. There is no turning back.

We are leaving the foothills.

In Conclusion

With this Foothills volume, we wanted to bring across that this is a people book. To more directly involve you in the actual yearbook production, a poll was taken of student opinions. We hope somewhere in this book you can find your own memories of the year. That has been our goal.

Devices we used to achieve a popular book included a better use of what colors we had, an expanded student life section (our theme set us to calling it Landmarks), and a livelier class section with more candids and articles geared to each class.

As editors, we appreciate the cooperation of our staff. In our 9 years of year-booking we have never seen such an individualistic group of people.

A special thanks to Jim Ellis and Hunter Publishing Company for their complete cooperation. Others that deserve our closing attentions include Mrs. Hook and Mrs. Bruce (for the "borrowing" we did), Harvey and his tables, and Troiano for the dinner.

Our deepest gratitude is expressed to sponsor Barbara Keller. She kept us sane, but more importantly, she tolerated our creativity with the line, "if it were me—I wouldn't do this . . . but do what you want to do!"

Thanks also to Jackson Browne's "Late for the Sky" album.

In closing, we'd like to thank each other for the gratification, growth, and sheer enjoyment the Foothills have brought to us.

Eric Hook Jamie Heltzel
